STONEHAM HIGH SCHOOL
CLASS OF 1977

PUBLIC LIBRARY
STONEHAM

I see the past,
a far away, long gone thing lingering like a forgotten star and never quite fading from our sky.
I see the present,
caught up in a breeze of words lightly spoken.
Where will we go?
Tomorrow is stretched out like so many roads.
I see a vision,
blurred portraits
of our future lives, visions of tomorrow
glimmering ahead.
Dream your dreams.
What we are today
we may be tomorrow,
and never grow to fill the frame — without visions.

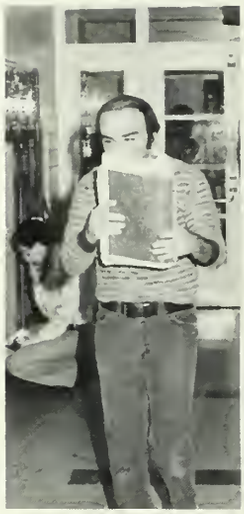
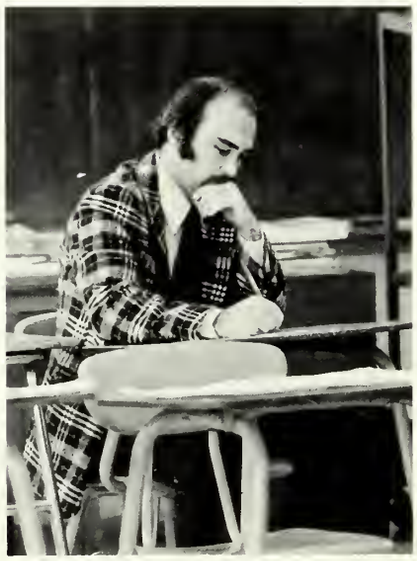
DEDICATION





Mr. Peter Mathison is no ordinary teacher. Never satisied with merely lecturing from behind a desk, he has broken out of the old traditions, constantly coming up with innovative teaching methods. We have discovered through him that learning can be stimulating and enjoyable, and that we need never be bored in a classroom. He teaches social studies as a means through which we can learn of the mistakes and successes of our predecessors, so that our generation will make fewer mistakes and be even more successful. He knows enough about what we'll be up against after graduation not to make things too easy for us, yet he is so encouraging and helpful that we have found ourselves doing much more than we thought we could.

Mr. Mathison's qualities as a teacher compliment his performance as an advisor. Any teacher taking on the job of class advisor must be able to communicate with students, appreciate their problems, and see things from their point of view. Mr. Mathison has done all these things supremely well. When we look back on our high school years, we will become increasingly aware of the soundness of his advice and the deepness of his understanding, and we will thank him for them. As for everything else, we are thanking him now.

The Class of 1977

Within my eyes
Unfolds the folding of unfading dreams.
In a child beats the pulse of age,
And prime impinges on our relaxing rage.
Remember first eye opening And sun reflecting through a shield of gilded hair.
Remember last words and the final foot-fall before the gilded stair.

IN MEMORIAM
DIANA GARGANO
CATHERINE VIGLIONE

Keep a fire burning in your eyes, pay attention to the open skies,
you never know what will be coming down.
I must have thought you'd always be around,
now you're nowhere to be found.
I don't know what happens when people die, can't seem to grasp it, as hard as I try.
Like a song I can hear playing right in my ear,
I can't sing it, but I can't help listening.
I can't help feeling stupid standing 'round.
Crying is the easier down,
Cause I know that you'd rather we were dancing, dancing our sorrow away.
No matter what fate chooses to bring,
just do the steps that you've been shown,
by everyone you've ever known,
until the dance becomes your very own.
No matter how close to yours' another's steps have grown, in the end there is one dance you'll do alone.

"For a Dancer" by Jackson Browne

this shining night made shadows round.
side the ground sour lies down the north healed, All is health holds the earth
- All whole.

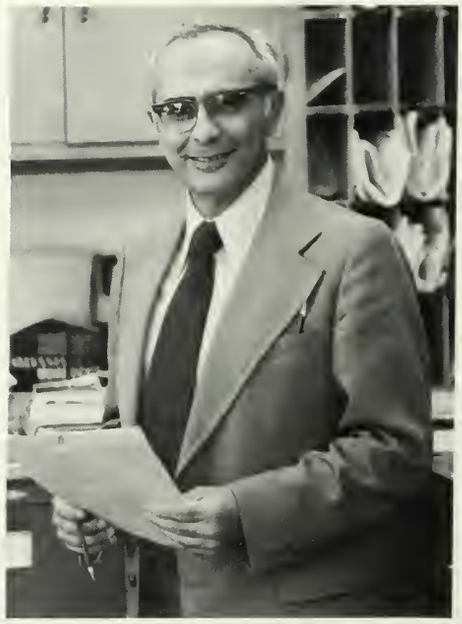
FACULTY

ADMINISTRATION

When you speak to me of visions, you touch my life and career, because what we accomplish and what we fail to do in this school affect the next generation. Every member of this class is unique, a miracle never to be copied. Because of this diversity, the responsibility we accept for your education is at once awesome and humbling. While your individual abilities, interests, and dreams may vary greatly, we must still seek to bring out the very best in every one of you.

William L. Hoyt, Principal



Fred Kiamie, Vice Principal

Above all, we must seek to enhance your own vision of yourselves — that is, not only of your dignity, but of what you are, and of what you can accomplish. Only in trying to do this can we as educators find meaning in our own lives. When we succeed, we have won a victory for humanity; we have influenced the quality of life. My vision is a school that succeeds with every student.

Donald P. Musico, Program Supervisor

The English department of Stoneham High is concerned with helping students cope with a multimedia world by teaching them to communicate through the written and spoken word. This year, as in the past, basic skills such as reading comprehension and writing were emphasized while proficiency at verbal communication was developed through class discussions and oral reports.

The fourth quarter elective program begun last year for sophomores and juniors was continued, with the addition of new courses giving an even greater variety to the wide range of electives already established. The seniors, with a wide variety of half-year courses offered, enjoyed studying electives reflecting their own interests.

MATHEMATICS

The Math department offers courses on all levels from Algebra I through Calculus, and provides a review course for interested juniors as well as a CEEB review course for those planning to take the college board exams in Math. To allow students more flexibility in planning their schedules, many courses, such as the CEEB review, Trigonometry, and an elective on statistics introduced last year, are half-year courses. Students receive practical math from these programs while at the same time they are learning to see Mathematics from a theoretical viewpoint and appreciate it as a science. The Math department tries to give the individual student all the math background he needs, whether he will go on to be a math major in college or simply the average citizen juggling figures on his income tax form.

HOME ECONOMICS

To our graduating seniors, the Home Economics department sends warm regards, and best wishes for your continuing success.

Whether your selections of Home Economics courses were in-depth, or elective, we know that you are aware of our aims: the strengthening of life through the management and development of human and material resources of the individual, family and community.

When you prepared a buffet for a crowd, learned to cope with family and friends, worked with babies and small children, learned facts about nutrition, or marriage, or tailoring, — all this and much more — You were learning to strengthen the quality of life.

We regard you all with our deep affection.

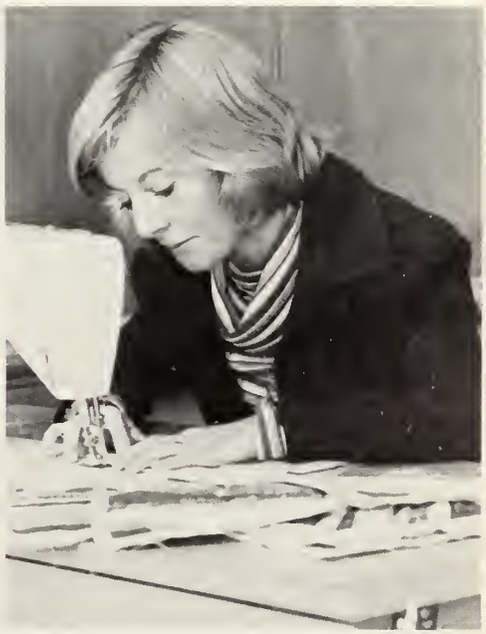
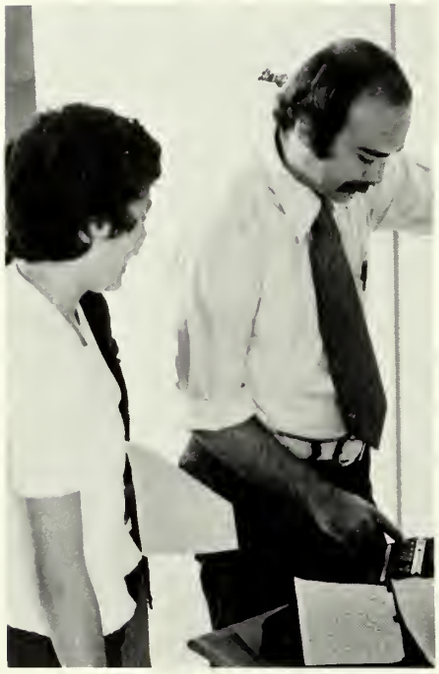
Mrs. V. Kloss



SOCIAL STUDIES

The Social Studies department is committed to a program which fosters individual fulfillment so that each student may participate in society, understand society and play a meaningful role in it. The Social Studies department, through its fourteen course offerings, attempts to give to each student a knowledge of the past and its relationship to the present and future.



It also brings about an understanding of man so as to better foster respect for individual differences between and among men, and a knowledge and appreciation of the laws of our society. Equipped with this knowledge, we hope that students will be more prepared to enter into an ever changing world in which life may be a rewarding and enriching experience.

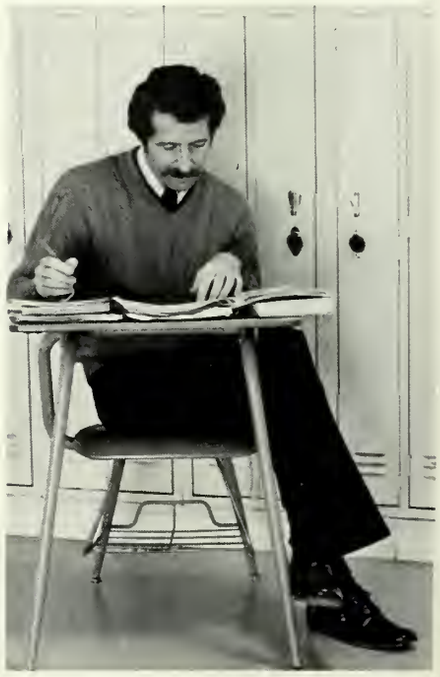
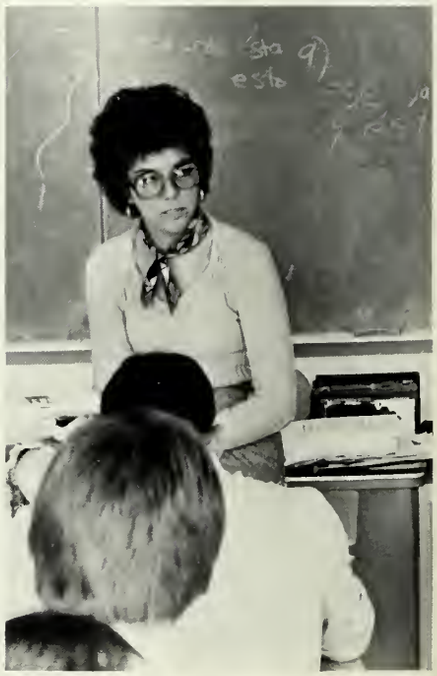
FOREIGN LANGUAGE

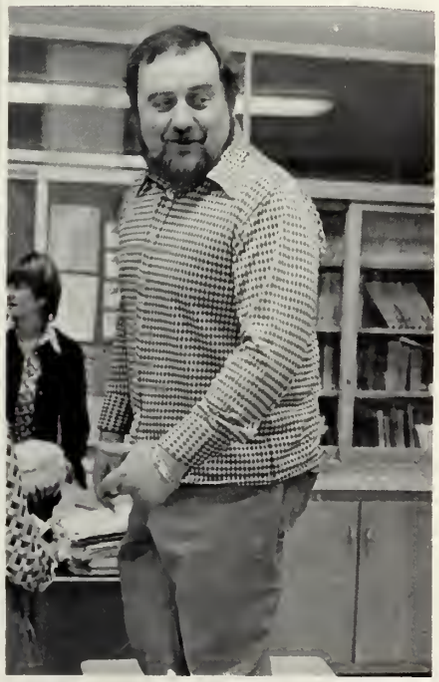
The Foreign Language Program underwent considerable change this year. New textbooks were introduced in Spanish and French, and the students were encouraged to participate in cultural activities. Latin classes wrestled with the complexities of the ancient world.

Front: P. Nolan, K. Klimas, F. Bacon; Back: A. Rocher, V. Komanowski, P. Atkinson



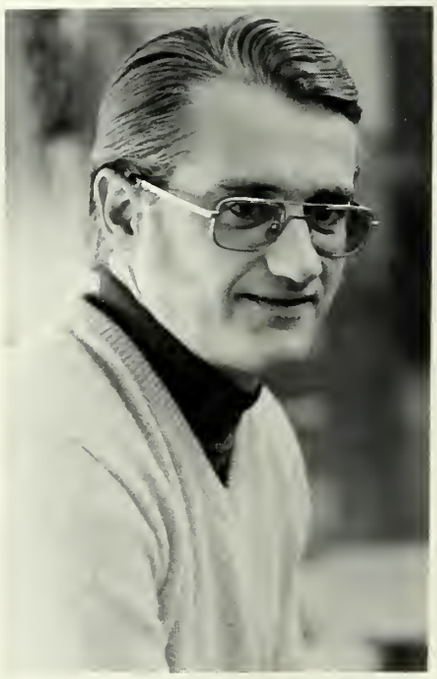


They also pursued variegated projects of reading and writing in both Classical and Post-Classical Latin. More attention was given in all classes to speaking and listening, while advanced students were encouraged to pursue independent work.



SCIENCE

Clockwise: D. Molloy, J. McGuire, P. Tine, B. Jenkins, J. Hanley, M. Schoepfer, N. Guletsky In center: J. Collins. Missing: G. Layne



Thomas Cleary, Program Supervisor

The Science department has recently been reviewing and updating its course offerings. This is being done to present to our students courses which will meet their needs and abilities. Curriculum guides have been developed in the areas of Biology and Chemistry. This year a course in Advanced Biology on the CA level was offered for the first time and has been very successful.

Our science club is again an active organization undertaking many projects and field trips for students with special interests in science. The department feels very proud of the students that have taken its courses and of their accomplishments.

BUSINESS

The Business Education Program provides occupational and vocational instruction for all students who desire careers in business. The program provides fundamental instruction to help students assume their economic roles as consumers, workers, and citizens. It also provides instruction to assist students who are preparing for professional careers in business fields that require advanced study.

ART

T. Schwalb, M. Cargill

"And so I live in leisure and nourish my vital power. I play the lute, lay down the picture of scenery, face it in silence, and, while seated, travel beyond the four borders of the land, never leaving the realm where nature exerts her influence, and alone responding to the call of the wilderness. Here the cliffs and peaks seem to rise to soaring heights, and groves in the midst of clouds are dense and extend to the vanishing point. Sages and virtuous men of far antiquity come back to live in my imagination and all interesting things come together in my spirit and in my thoughts. What else need I do? I gratify my spirit that is all. What is there that is more important than gratifying the spirit?"

MUSIC

The Stoneham High music department contributes greatly to the cultural life of the school and community. The choirs and bands present many concerts throughout the area. In addition, students learn piano, music theory, and appreciation in the elective course program. Exchange trips, festival competitions, and Carnival Ball are highlights of each year's activities.

This boy at ease thus in the grass
Is it vision of a victory
Or remembrance of defeat
That fixes him in its captivating eye?
Is it fragile memory or some faint promise veiled in the elusive sky that beckons him to pass this moment
in reverie?

Take a pair of batty old ladies who poison their lonely gentlemen guests out of pity, their very nervous nephew trying to dispose of one of their victims, his bugle-blowing lunatic brother who thinks he's Teddy Roosevelt, and another brother fresh out of a prison for the criminally insane, and you have the essence of ARSENIC AND OLD LACE, this year's senior-sponsored drama production. A blend of delightful melodrama and subtle humor, the play was excellently cast, and each audience carried away lasting memories of the performance after the final curtain.

ARSENIC AND OLD LACE

Carnival Ball

The 1977 Carnival Ball, sparkling with color and variety, was one of the most original in years. The theme, appropriately enough, was "Carousel," and the clowns, jugglers, and top-hatted master and mistress of ceremonies lent a truly carnival atmosphere to the proceedings. King and Queen, John Carroll and Marsha Connors reigned in splendor over the Coronation Pageant, and were attended by Gigi Andreadis, Jill Boris, Carol Bosy, Joan Cataldo, Carol Censullo, Karen Cullen, Stacey Lespasio, Joan Maher, Roseann Nardella, and Nancy

Vogt, each wearing regal gowns, many of which were made by the girls themselves.

As the performances got under way, Master and Mistress of Ceremonies, Dom Visconti and Krisanne Barton kept things running with superlative smoothness. The Senior Waltz was peculiarly appropriate — the couples waltzed to the "Carousel" theme, with their graceful dancing suggesting the movement of a carousel. Next, Janet O'Neil twirled her "Magic Batons" to a recording of "Fancy Pants," using flourescent batons first and then climaxing the act with fire-tipped ones as the audience sat spell-bound. Then Doug Jackson, Stoneham High's king of country music, strummed his own accompaniment to his rendition of "Me and Bobby McGee." The mood changed from country to mellow as Rosemary St. George soloed on "Your Song," playing a flowing piano accompaniment as she sang. The next act, the Riverboat Square Dance, was one of the most original on the program, and many in the audience clapped along as Jim Grubb did the calling and the couples — Joyce Grant and Mark Wade, Candy Hamlyn and Mark Mulligan, Mary Jane Grubb and Perry Hamlyn, and Terry Whittaker and Peter Pizzano — whirled around the stage in traditional square dancing costume.

"Sentimentale," featuring Claire DiPrisco of flute, Lisa Reis on piano, James Standish on drums, and Ralph Pisaturo on guitar, was performed in an exciting style combining classical and jazz. It wasn't difficult to make the transition from this gentle piece to the easy-rock sounds of "Tequila Sunrise," sung by Jim Cremins. Next came one of the highlights of the program — "Soldier Boy," a piece of 1950's nostalgia featuring Kris Barton, Debbie Columbus, Rose Hickey, Janet Higgins, Kathy Houghton, Janet Hussar, Julie Hohnson, Diane Jutras, Ann Farren, Janet O'Neil, Terry Perryman, and Mariann Screnci, all in bobby sox and highschool outfits. As a fitting conclusion to the act, enter "soldier boy" Mr. Dennis Mulvihill at the song's end, only to be dragged away by Mr. Peter Mathison and Mr. Barry Jenkins as blustering military policeman.

Midway in the Carnival's performing segment, the Stoneham High School Jazz Ensemble presented its "Tribute to the Swing Greats." "Auright, Auright," "Azure," "Send in the Clowns," and "O'Clock Jump" were featured as the audience was taken back through time musically to the days of Duke Ellington and Count Basie. Laurie Sandgren followed with the peaceful "To the Morning," a poetic ode to the sunrise which she sang to the band's accompaniment.

Then Mark Stuart, with his own smooth, up-beat guitar accompaniment, soloed on the happy-sad "I'll Have to Say I Love You in a Song."

Towards the production's end the carnival's theme was again brought out with Irene Brennick's vibrant, wistful rendition of "Send in the Clowns." Irene also appeared in the next act, along with Claire DiPrisco, Rick Hayman, and Mike Jutras, who sang "That'll Be the Day" and provided background to Irene's solo in true 1950's style. Many participants in earlier acts were featured in The Stoneham High School Carnival Chorus, which capped the program by singing songs appropriate to the "Carousel" theme — "The World is a Circle," The Circle Game" and selections from "Carousel."

A constant reminder of the program's theme were the clowns — Alice Rump, Michael Cestellano, Debbie Columbus, Stephanie Grecco, Janet Higgins, Brenda Martino, Phyllis Moore, Diane Musial, Janet O'Neil, Susan Palerno, Mariann Screnci, Jean Turner, and Paula Walker — who darted on and off the stage between acts with waterpistols, noisemakers and confetti. They even had an act of their own — midway in the program they give an exuberant performance of the Can-Can to the band's raunchy accompaniment.

Carnival Ball traditionally spotlights seniors, but this year, as always, there were several excellent acts performed by underclassmen. Mario Cantone, after doing a monologue on the funny side of living in New York City, became Walt the Rubber Freak and kept the audience laughing with a monologue on what it's like to be addicted to rubber. "Here, There, Everywhere," a slow, sweet love song superbly sung by Cindy Rockwood, put the audience in a mellow mood. An amusing combination of politics and crime show plot was combined in "The Carnival Kid," a dialogue performed by Bernie Corbett and Alan Cromwell, who worked their impressions of Kojak, Karl Malden, Nixon, and Jimmy Carter into their riotous act. Phyllis Fabiano did a solo rendition of "More Than You Know," a smooth, sentimental love song. "Cause We've Ended as Lovers," a electric guitar solo by Michael Bain, held the audiences attention from the opening bar to the last, as Mike's swift runs and expert picking created a Kaleidoscope of sound.

To bring the program to its conclusion, the King, Queen, and attendants joined in the finale. As during the Coronation, the band played "Pomp and Circumstance" — the brass section giving new color to the traditional piece — and the royal couple and attendants once again promenaded down the aisle, bringing to a close one of the most colorful and entertaining productions in Carnival Ball's history.

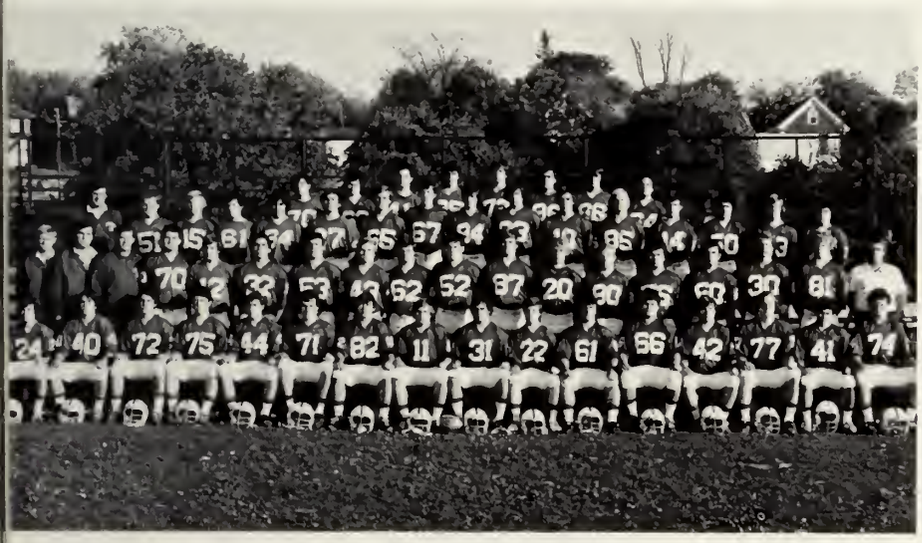
SOCCER

The soccer team enjoyed its second consecutive winning season this fall by posting an 8-6-4 record. Although not living up to Coach Kennedy's pre-season expectations, the team came on strong the last half of the season by winning or tying its last six games. The highlight of the season came when the Spartans tied Lexington for the first time since our soccer program started.

The J.V. squad had its best season ever and with several returning seniors prospects for the state tournament next year look very solid.

1st Row: M. Shannon, J. Harrigan, C. Lewis, W. Breck, S. Buitkus, D. Mathewson, M. Maillet, K. Dolan, T. Sweet, M. Bloom, D. Sheedy, G. Regan, Coach Kennedy.

FOOTBALL



The Stoneham High Varsity football team had a very successful 1976 season. They finished the season with a very respectable 6-2-1 record, good enough for a second place spot. Led by captains Norm Houghton and Steve Jamieson, the team had a never-die attitude and worked extremely hard throughout the season. Team morale ran very high, and with the top notch coaching of Mr. White, Mr. Fillback, and Mr. Qualey, the Spartans ended up as winners all the way.

1st Row: W. Angelosanto, R. DiCredico, C. DiGangi, R. Prior, S. Mingella, L. Marshall, J. Carroll, S. Jamieson, N. Houghton, W. Manning, J. Cremins, M. MacDonald, F. Small, P. Connelly, R. With only two returning letter winners (co-captains Pattye Smith and Janice Bohling) this year's field hockey team had a great barrier to overcome — inexperience. The season started off slowly for the Spartans, but the girls' indomitable spirit kept them working hard to improve their playing. By the end of the season, the girls had gained enough momentum to knock powerful Burlington out of state competition.

Playing in an extremely competitive league, the team compiled a 1-9-3 record. Each game was hard fought and any success the girls achieved was well deserved.

CROSS COUNTRY

Although the 1976 Stoneham Cross-Country Team ended up with a 3-6 record, the season had its positive aspects. One was Frank Scarpa's series of triumphs — he was undefeated in League Competition, winning nine varsity meets and beating some very stiff competition in the process.

Another plus for the season was an unusually large turn-out of twenty-five people for the team. Senior teammembers included Frank Scarpa and Phil McCallum, co-captains (both were chosen for the Middlesex League All-Star Team); Peter Dillon, David Murphy, John Murray, Mike O'Grady, George Hegarty, Scott Stimpson, Andrew Court, Paul Howard, and Stacey Lespasio. Coach Rocher hopes for a better season next year, with eleven underclassmen and women returning.

HOCKEY

The Spartan ice hockey team started the season with a 5-3 win over Melrose and rolled along to a 6-3-3 record. The season's highlight came when Stoneham defeated league-leading, undefeated Burlington in a tight-checking game by a score of 1-0. Fine individual and team performances have brought the team to the top of the league once again, with the Spartans seeking revenge over last year's .500 record. With only six games remaining in the season, prospects for the state tournament look excellent.

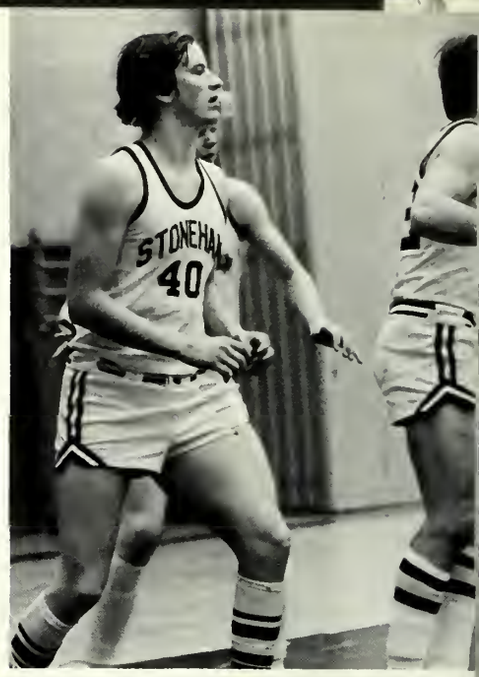
Kneeling: P. Deflumeri, J. Norden, Co-Capt. F. Scarpa, D. Mathewson, B. McDonough, S. Sullivan, J. Kelley, B. Simpson. Standing: Assistant Coach W. Seabury, Co-Capt. P. Howard, P. Burns, S. Jamieson, J. Clark, P. Parsons, G. Morse, M. Miasserian, M. Borgsteede, J. O'Grady, T. O'Grady, K. Talbot, S. Buitkus, Head Coach D. Burns.

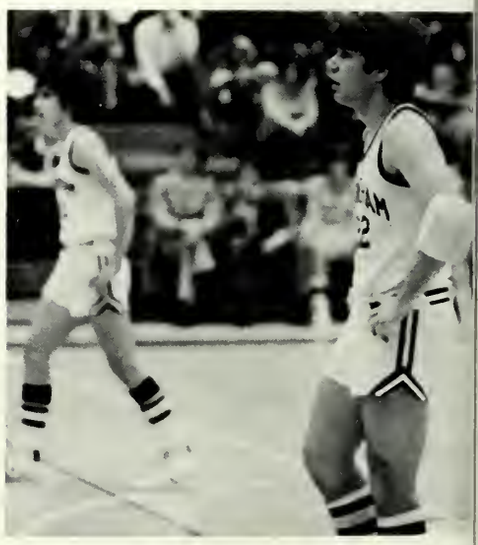
WINTER TRACK

Front row: J. Doherty, J. Cremins, P. Zengilowski, P. McCallum, P. Dillon, J. Murray, M. Stuart, A. Court, R. Jamieson. Back row: A. Rocher, D. Beane, D. Cronier, T. Angelosanto, V. Brienze, D. Stone, J. Adams, D. Doucette, B. Perry, J. Fitzgerald, J. Jessup, T. Harrigan, J. Brown, R. Regan, W. McLaughlin.

The Stoneham High Winter Track Team has improved greatly and earned league-wide respect in its 1976-1977 season. Under the able guidance of coaches Rocher and Pierce, the team has compiled a record of 2-4-2, with one meet remaining. After two winless winter seasons, the Spartans have begun to show what they're made of. The team is well balanced and has many positive points, though their weakness in long distance events has kept them from reaching the top of the League. The team consists of many versatile and dedicated athletes who perform with pride and enthusiasm. Win or lose, the Spartans always have the right attitude — a winning one — and the team and its coaches are anxiously awaiting the spring after a short but successful winter season.

BASKETBALL





Front row: N. Lespasio, S. Perrone, Co-Capt. J. Carroll, V. Salazzo. Back row: G. Yianacopolus, J. Belcher, J. Rathbun, Co-Capt. P. Connelly, P. Rathbun, A. Athanas, Coach Tavanese.

The Stoneham High School basketball team got off to a good start this year, winning non-league games against Bedford, Cathedral, and Milton. However, when the team got into league action, the going became much tougher — the Spartans lost their first three League games to Winchester, Melrose, and Wakefield. Things began looking up when they took a fine Lexington squad into overtime before losing by three points, and the team began playing better, subsequently defeating Woburn and Watertown. Then the Spartans met up with an excellent Burlington team and were defeated. Finishing up the first half of their season, the team defeated Belmont after an exciting second half, only to find themselves blitzed by an improved Reading. They hope to improve on their respectable 6-6 record during the season's second half.

GIRLS BASKETBALL

Kneeling: Co-Captains J. Palumbo, J. Vennochi. Standing: L. Sorenson, M. Clabby, C. Hegarty, P. Doherty, T. Kwiatkowski, S. McGuire, J. DeCosta, Coach M. Kennedy.

This year's girls basketball season was exciting as well as fun. Enthusiastic participation and a lengthier season brought much to the team. Despite a few losses at the beginning, the team won major games against Reading, Melrose and Winchester. Seemingly all that was needed by the determined team was the confidence and encouragement supplied by Coach Kennedy.

GYMNASTICS

Kneeling: J. Dolan, Capt. N. Adams, J. Cataldo, P. Moore, P. Smith, E. Desmond. Standing: J. O'Grady, P. Griffith, D. Zarba, L. Malagodi, P. Murphy, J. McNulty, Coach C. Carbone.

This year's girls' gymnastic team was relatively inexperienced, with four sophomores filling out the roster. The level of performance was greatly improved, a fact possibly due to the recent surge of interest in the sport. Seniors Nancy Adams (captain), Joan Cataldo, Phyllis Moore, and Pattye Smith completed their last year on the team with high scores throughout the season, while the underclassmen worked on building a solid foundation for next year's team.

The stage but echoes back the public voice,
The drama's law the drama's patrons give,
For we that live to please, must please to live.

Visions of my past,
Woven from the warp and woof
Of my yesterdays,
My own tapestry
unique in its design
Yet unfinished in its uniqueness.
Visions of my present,
The threads slowly spinning joining the design.
Visions of my future,
The tapestry unfolding
through a lifetime,
its design my own,
colors of my choosing — Visions of a life.

Where there is no vision, people perish.

— Proverbs, 29:18

End with the beginning
What the snow white child sees Is snow and the whites of its own eyes
In the melting
In the shelter of the reflecting trees
Beyond the last branch
Behind the new eyes
Beneath the burial mound
Is a vision
Unfolding
Like the turning of
